 Note to SIPRAC Members - In response to industry comments DEEP received during last summer's Permit Assessment Review and to aid in the preparation of Best Available Control Technology (BACT) determinations for New Source Review permitting, the Bureau of Air Management has developed the CT BACT DATABASE which contains all minor source and major source BACT determinations made over the past five years. The BACT determinations can be browsed and custom reports can be run based on permit issue dates, pollutants and EPA process codes. This new tool can be found on DEEP's Air Permitting Assistance Webpage. If you have questions, comments or suggestions for improvements please contact Louis Corsino at louis.corsino@ct.gov.*
