RESEARCH, ANALYSIS & EVALUATION — WWW.CT.GOV/OPM/CriminalJustice/Research

Highlights

- The prison population increased, between May 1st and June 1st, from 18,259 to 18,364, a rise of 105 inmates (See Chart 2). This growth occurred despite 156 fewer prison admittances during May than in April.
- Statewide criminal arrests fell by almost 5%, from 9,566 to 9,124, between April and May. This drop contributed to a 6.4% drop in the number of accused persons admitted to prison during May.
- The modest decrease in the number of offenders who were released or discharged during May was probably the largest single contributor to the growth of the prison population we witnessed during the last month. Releases declined in every category except the transfer parole count (see Table 3).
- Between the start of November 2009, when re-entry furloughs we reintroduced, and the end of May 2010, roughly 330 offenders have been released through the furlough process (See Chart 5). On June 1, 2010, 18 offenders were on re-entry furloughs.
- The Board of Pardons and Parole held 319 full-panels hearings in May. The parole grant rate was 76%. This is the first time the number of hearings exceeded 300 since June 2009.

The CJPAC Research Workgroup delivered a presentation to CJPAC on June 10, 2010. Streaming video of the presentation is available on line at the CTN website.

Prison Population Forecast

The state's prison population increased slightly in May. The average daily prisoner count during the first week of June was 18,352, an increase of 87 inmates over the May figure.

At this point, May's modest increase in the prison population is not a cause for immediate concern. The prison population typically rises as the weather warms. In some years, this population increase appears early in the season; in other years the prison population does not grow until late summer. This seasonal fluctuation is generally seasonal fluctuation is generally impacted by an increase in the volume of criminal arrests that drives an increase the number of new prison admittances. To date, OPM had not observed an increase in arrest totals.

New admits were not a factor in this month's prison-population increase. In fact, monthly admits fell from 2,562 in April to 2,406 in May. Instead, the new inmate count appears to reflect a drop in the total number of offenders who were released or discharged in May.

Unlike states that have county governments, the majority of agencies within Connecticut's criminal justice system are State agencies. The one exception is law enforcement, where there are over 90 local police departments and the Connecticut State Police.

- Arrest: An individual enters into the criminal justice system at the time of arrest.
- 2) Court: At arraignment, judges review the charges filed against the accused and set a bail amount. Individuals who cannot meet bail conditions are incarcerated in DOC facilities to await trial. If the defendant is convicted, they may be sentenced to a range of sanctions including a fine, probation, or a term of incarceration.
- 3) DOC Facilities: Total facility population at DOC contains the unsentenced population, which is awaiting trial, the sentenced population, inmates who have returned from special parole, and offenders charged in federal cases or non-state cases.
- 4) Pre-Trial Release: Some defendants who are incarcerated pending the disposition of their cases may be eligible for a bond reduction or placement into pre-trial diversionary programs or treatment programs. These programs feature close coordination and cooperation between DOC, CSSD and the Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services (DMHAS).
- 5) Re-Entry Services: Depending on several factors, an inmate may be eligible to complete a portion of his/her prison sentence under supervision of the DOC's Parole and Community Services Unit. Non-violent Inmates with sentences shorter than two years are eligible for Transitional Supervision after serving 50% of their sentences. Inmates serving sentences longer than two years may be eligible for parole.
- 6) Returns: Offenders who violate the conditions of their community release may be returned to prison to complete the remainder of their sentences.
- 7) End of Sentence (EOS): At the end of their sentences some offenders are required to complete a period of post-release supervision. Split-sentence offenders are supervised by the Judicial Branch's Office of Adult Probation. Offenders sentenced to special parole remain under DOC supervision.
- 8) Violation of Probation: If an individual violates the terms of their probation, an arrest warrant must be issued, and the violator's case is returned to court.

Parole

Paroles and Parole hearings

The Board considered 319 parole cases at full panel hearings during May. In 243 cases, offenders were granted parole dates; in 76 cases, parole was denied. In addition there were 103 parole violation hearings, resulting in 72 offenders being reparoled; 61 for revocations and 11 for rescissions.

Data Notes: Figures are based on the data available at the time of this report. Data in subsequent issues may not agree.

The Board is moving towards scheduling dates for parole hearing up to 18 months before an offender's eligibility date. This should allow the Board to have a greater effect on offender programming while the offender remains incarcerated. It should also provide DOC with more time to develop a successful reintegration plan for each offender. If properly implemented, this change should reduce the number of offenders that are incarcerated beyond their parole eligibility dates.
